https://comment-fic.livejournal.com/164101.html?thread=35450629#t35450629

The dawn's light burns in Heaven, even if it is accustomed to light of all forms.

But Lucifer is home, he has brought no army to meet Heaven's own garrisons, save his contracts and ties to Earth's elemental forces, and his might is like a hurricane.

The throne of God is nothing to the elements, he finds, and he does not regret his choices as he topples Heaven in one dawn.